Why do People Come to Us? We Know Your Community!

A Message from Your EECA Board

Well winter is finally poking its head around the corner and the new year is only one month away, my how time flies. Just a reminder to make sure your heat tape is working to prevent frozen pipes. The community is starting to take on the spirit of Christmas and the light displays are looking amazing.

Tickets for NEW YEARS EVE are now available and the same price as last year at $25.00 per person. Call Al at 780-756-3746 or Troy at 780-935-9611 to get yours before they are sold out.

The skate shack renovations are being completed! A lot of money and time went into fixing up the bathrooms, roof, electrical, paint, shed and deck. We are very grateful to funding we received from the government to complete this. We are now preparing to get into the season however the weather is the question of when we start!

On a sadder note, the Board of Directors wish luck in the future endeavours of one of our most dedicated, innovative and intuitive members. Natalie Silver-Haywood resigned from her position of Program Director to concentrate on the ever growing demands of her business "It's a Dog's Life" grooming salon along with spending more time with her family. Her wise counsel, commitment to the community, and desire to make this the best community through the programs she has developed, will be greatly missed. Natalie was the driving force behind the development and launching of our very successful Early Learning Program. The Community Association and Board of Directors wish her every success and happiness in the future and offer our most heartfelt Thank You! for your contributions to the community. You will be missed.

As well, we would like to wish the best of luck to our Sports Director, Ryan Haywood, who has also resigned. Thank you Ryan for your contributions.

On behalf of all of the board of the EECA, We would like to wish everyone a very Merry Christmas and a safe and Happy New Year!

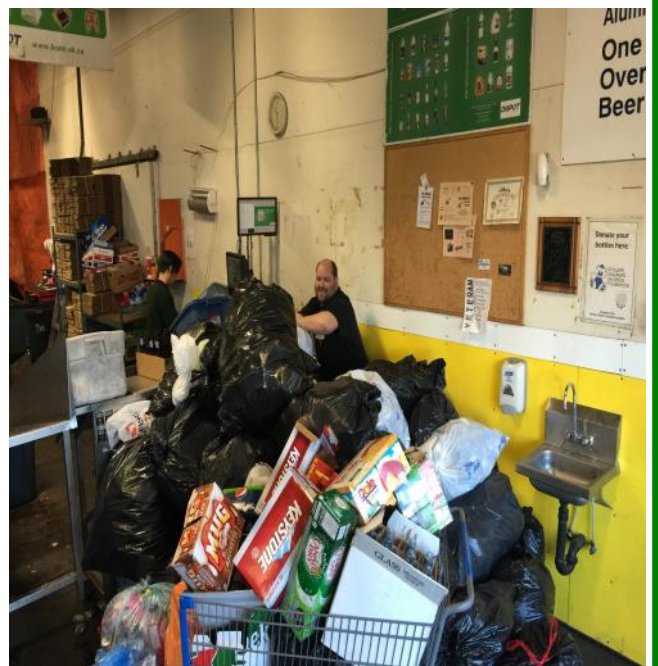

EECA/Gentlemen of Evergreen Bottle Drive

Thank you to all the residents who contributed bottles and cans to the EECA/Gentlemen of Evergreen bottle drive on November 14th, 2015. Because of you, we collected over 4500 bottles and cans that added up to $505.95 which was split 50/50 between the Edmonton Evergreen Community Association and the Gentlemen of Evergreen. The Gentlemen of Evergreen is a TAFEY youth centre program for young men ages 12-17.

Thank you to the Gentlemen for going door to door with Troy. Thank you to Don Wheaton Chevrolet Buick GMC Cadillac Ltd and James Paull for donating their trucks for use and to Al and James for driving!

Pictured to the right is our President, Troy Girard, buried in bottles and cans at the Bottle Depot on Sunday November 21, 2015

From my family and staff at Happy Pizza, we would like to wish you happy holidays. May your holidays be filled with family, fun, and love.

Best Wishes in the New Year.

-Will

Garden Club News

Greetings fellow gardeners! It's official. It's winter. This certainly does not mean we stop thinking about growing things! If you are looking for the perfect chrysanthemum, consider a trip to Hole's greenhouse. Their selection will blow you away.

The winter months are cold and dark but it can sure cheer you up to spend a day in a bright greenhouse. Take your children to Kuhlmann's to see the turtles and fish and bask in the sun and tropical flora (they have a very unique temporary Christmas store too!). Have tea at the Muttart conservatory. Attend a nature show at the John Janzen Nature Centre. A few outings like that, and spring will be returning before you can say rhododendrons. Another way to help pass the winter hours is to join the Garden Club! Call Mary at 780-406-5710 to join us for speakers, crafts, trips and fellowship with gardeners in Evergreen (and a few from the city, too).

Our last meeting was very crafty. Members learned the fine art of decoupage and many garden-related masterpieces were created by the end of the night.

Our next meeting is our Christmas potluck! Bring any dish you'd like as well as a wrapped, anonymous, garden-related gift between $15-$20 for an entertaining gift exchange game. Please note that since we are having supper, the meeting will be one hour earlier! So bring your Christmas cheer to the hall on December 21st at 5:30pm.

Merry Christmas to all of you, from all of us.

EECA EARLY LEARNING PROGRAM

Taking the next big leap

As many of you know, Isaac is co-leader of the Gentlemen of Evergreen program and has been since the fall of 2010. We at Evergreen Youth are extremely proud of his accomplishments and thrilled to have played a miniscule role in his future direction working with youth.

Isaac Tyler is already putting his degree to good use, helping establish an after-school program and native studies course for Edmonton Catholic Schools' Aboriginal learning program.

- See more at: <https://uofa.ualberta.ca/news-and-events/newsarticles/2015/november/taking-the-next-big-leap#sthash.etCHKK7i.dpuf>

This year, Isaac Tyler had his best jump ever. A member of the UofA's varsity track team, he took 3rd at the CanWest championships—a big accomplishment. Now he's ready to take an even bigger jump into life after graduation and a new job as a curriculum support instructor with Edmonton Catholic Schools' Aboriginal learning services.

Working with youth has been a passion of Isaac's for several years. In 2010, he took a summer job with the City of Edmonton as a skate park host. "The job was basically just to hang out with the kids, play some cards, skateboard, hand out Band-Aids." There he discovered a talent for working with youth, finding it easy to connect with the kids at the park. He wondered whether it would be possible to do more, telling his boss that he wanted to find a way to continue working with youth in his community. She helped him find funding to launch a program in his neighbourhood, Evergreen, a mobile home community with a small-town feel in Edmonton's northeast.

The community hired Isaac and another youth leader and opened the doors on a new Saturday drop-in program for teens.

Initially a broader youth program, it eventually evolved to support teen boys specifically as one of a number of programs provided by the Association for Evergreen Youth. With the program open every Saturday from 3-10 p.m., the teens know they can come and go as they like or stay for the whole time. Isaac explains, "We're trying to build responsible citizens who contribute back. So we try to teach basic life skills like cooking, even just putting on deodorant—they're teenage boys, it's a big thing! We just try to create a safe place for the kids to come: to come play sports, to come hang out. A lot of kids have made some of their best friends there."

That work with youth in Evergreen led to his new role with Edmonton Catholic Schools. One of his tasks will be to help establish an after-school program for high-school boys. "The boys want to work out, they want to play basketball, so it's almost what I've been doing—making a safe place for kids to come, hang out, stay out of trouble as well. Maybe somewhere safe to talk about what's going on at home, work on extra homework, get extra help." Along with the after-school program, Isaac will be helping to develop content for a high-school native studies course. He's excited to be able to put his academic knowledge to use: "I get to use all of my knowledge of history and native studies and finally put it towards something really valuable that someone else is going to learn at a younger age."

Native studies wasn't his original plan when he first started university. A transfer student from MacEwan with an interest in history, he was initially drawn to Middle Eastern and African studies. But when he learned about the Faculty of Native Studies, he knew he'd found his path. "I didn't know what it would lead to when I was finished, but I knew it was going to be information I could use for a long time and something I could use to contribute back when I was done."

"People always ask me when I say I'm in native studies, 'Are you native?' That's the first or second question they ask."

His answer is yes and no. He describes his father, who moved here from Oklahoma, as Black, German and Choctaw, but he emphasizes his dad has always just said that he lives in Canada. For Isaac, Native studies isn't about his personal identity. "I didn't come back to school until I was 21. You kind of see what everything is like out there in the world, and then you come into university and you learn, oh, so that's why that's that way. It's kind of putting all the pieces together." Now that he's graduating, Isaac is hoping to connect his academic knowledge back into the world in the same way that he saw the world reflected in his undergraduate studies. But grad school isn't far from his thoughts.

"If I could, I would do it right now. I like coming here so much. I love learning, and I love school so much. But I think this is a great way to get on the ground. It's groundwork." He wants to build a real-world understanding of young Indigenous people's experiences and challenges living in Edmonton: "Ideally, I'll learn from there, and then when I come back here, maybe I can apply that to some type of thesis or research initiative." Until then, he's looking forward to having the chance to make a difference in the lives of high-school students and to keep growing his understanding of concrete issues. "Ideally within a few years, I'll have more of a complete picture of everything. I'm excited for that."
